

Arc de Triomphe

Description

The Arc de Triomphe is an impressive piece of architecture standing 50 meters tall and located in Paris, France. It was built in 1806 to honor those who died in the Napoleonic wars and celebrates France's withstanding and resilience. This massive triumphal arch was born out of elegant Roman architecture yet remains an important part of France's identity. Also known as 'Place de l'Étoile', it is the center of 12 lively avenues radiating out of it and giving it its star-like shape. The Arc de Triomphe is definitely considered one of the most prestigious and iconic landmarks of Paris.
